

Elisha E. Dorsey

October 3, 2011

For Immediate Release

Page 1/2

Contact information: Elisha E. Dorsey

Elisha.Dorsey@quinnipiac.edu

Cell phone: (860) 752-5440

Angela Schutz addresses Public Relations Class at Quinnipiac

Professional career consultant encourages students to “where their own skin”.

HAMDEN, CONN. – Connecticut native Angela I. Schutz recently spoke to Quinnipiac University Public Relations students.

Schutz is managing director and founder of Driven to Success Consulting LLC in West Haven. Driven to Success is an executive career-consulting firm that provides career development and management resulting in over 125 successful job placements in the past 18 months. She also serves as an adjunct professor at Gateway Community College in New Haven. Schutz brings over 18 years of experience in education, career, and human resources management services to the table.

Students heard much advice that resonated with them. Sophomore public relations major Danielle Big said, “One thing that really hit home for me was when Ms. Schutz said that other people’s opinions of us are none of our business—the only person we have to hold ourselves accountable for is ourselves.”

Angela Schutz addresses Public Relations Class at Quinnipiac

Schutz values the importance of education and thinks of it as a lifelong search that doesn't discriminate based on age. She said, "The best career advice I could possibly give is that you have the power to steer your career. Ask yourself: Where do I want to go and how do I get there?"

In her free time, Schutz enjoys kayaking. She also serves on the Gateway Community College Board of Election, where she takes a leadership role as Scholarship Committee Chair.

-###-